Seven Sisters

Once upon a far off time when Gods lived on the land
Seven virgin sisters went walking hand in hand
Singing songs together, as they returned from town
Through the woods they rambled while the sun went down

A hunter saw these maidens like bows bend to his will
He ran so fast to catch them, but they ran faster still
Then the darkness fell around them and they were so afraid
Holding hands they prayed aloud, asking to be saved

Chorus:

Now seven sisters shine on high, as stars across the sky
Fleeing from the hunter 'til the morning light

The hunter caught the first young girl, and she turned to a dove
And one by one the seven sisters flew to heaven above
Then seven sisters turned to stars, shining through the night
And holding hands they are as one, they are the family of light

Chorus

It's a good thing to have your sisters with you
In times of trouble and strife
It's a good thing to have your sisters with you
Sisters all your life
