SHE'S GONE

Although it's almost midnight, let me buy you one more round
At a time like this I need a friend to scrape me off the ground
Now you ask me why I'm here alone and looking mighty pale
Let me do you a favor pal, and spare you the details

Don't want to waste your precious time tonight hearing me confess
Cause you've got better things to do and probably could care less
But when the sun came up this morning I found myself alone
To make a long story short, she's gone

I could bore you with the details of lies and deceit
And I could make you weep in sympathy for what she did to me
She told me that she loved me, at least that's what she said
It would curl your toes if the truth were told about the tears we shed

If I tell you all the finer points of heartbreak and deception
I believe you'll beg for mercy at my story of rejection
Someday I'll wake up knowing that I'm better off alone
To make a long story short, she's gone

To make a long story short, she's gone
